“The following is a true record of events as narrated by Gentlemen of the Hash.”

SOS gets a new t-shirt...

The Run

Well, well Haggis Humper's predictions of a huge British Navy invasion never materialized. So when SOS climbed out of the taxi with 86 bottles of H<sub>2</sub>O he was a bit miffed. A small turnout of about 12 guys made the trek up the hill for the start of this one from Aberdeen Country Park. We set off promptly at 18:45 after SOS had delivered the instructions:

The hash will take 45 minutes

DO NOT run through a falsie. If you are off trail you are off trail.

The On-On has been changed from Aberdeen Thai to Bulldog's – Wanchai. (?)

So off we went with Captain Pubic immediately sprinting to the front. After the initial check-back we turned right and down toward the dam and large streambed. And stopped. At the first check we spent 10 solid minutes with the entire pack scattered in every possible direction. The trail was FINALLY located by a valiant Small Bone and we were On-On, into the country park.

The pack was kept well together due in part to some clever checks, but mostly due to some pretty crap markings. After 30 minutes of running we were still headed away from home. Your's truly could hear Pussyfoot and 'Nah Phukit calling in the distance. Ice Dancer was, as usual, nowhere to be heard.

The 45 minute mark came and went and I for one, was getting pretty pissed-off. “That Welsh bastard is still running us away from home!” “There is NO WAY this is a 45 minute hash!” Then, rounding a corner I saw Smegma ahead of me with his backpack on and it dawned on me – This must be an A to B! Okay, I'm not the sharpest knife in the drawer but since no mention was made of an A to B at the start everyone assumed it was the usual A to A. This would explain the change of On-On location to Wanchai.

Sure enough – 2 minutes later I ascended Peel Rise and there was Wanchai Gap playground in all it's glory. I had assumed I was dead last but it turned out I was fourth in behind Pussy, CPH, Tinks and newcomer Disco Ass. Classic! The rest of the boys soon followed with Rubberdick(!) beating Caligula in as last runner by 5 minutes. Turns out SOS had made the decision on the fly to set an A to B because he couldn't figure out how to get back to A! Anyway, a decent run with an unexpected twist. Well done.

The Circle

Ice Dancer Started things off by demonstrating his new "Get the hell out of my circle" technique. (Arm not fully shown in the photo below). Co-Vice Masters SOS and Cabbage Patch were both in attendance for the first time this week. The pack was primed and ready for a good circle. Too bad they were soon to be disappointed...

On-In the Hare – SOS

Ice Dancer delivered DD's fast and furious to the boys. But since no scribe was appointed, none were recorded. SB stepped-in to write this week's notes because he was the one with the camera.

Spit or Swallow's Circle

SOS – delivered some incredibly long-winded non-funny down-down and awarded it to someone but I'm not sure who got it or why.

Pugak – Left in a huff because his hearing aid was working properly this week and he just couldn't take anymore of SOS's wit and repartee.

Cabbage – was welcomed back after far too long away.

Ice Dancer's Circle

Yujin & Disco Ass – Welcome to the Southside

Tinks – Refuses to pay for Ice Dancer's parking fee for his car, which is currently sitting at A in Aberdeen.

Caligula – Kicked out of the circle for being ultra-pedantic, 'nuff said.

Small Bone – Receives some new, inflatable, battery-operated piece of crap award which will appear and then disappear on-tour, never to be seen again.
